Modern China Rebellions, Reformations and Revolutions

Histry/AsianStd 385: Modern China (3 credits)

Instructor: Dr. Sinae Hyun (hyuns@uww.edu)

WEB BASED

This course examines the making of today's China by identifying historical turning points; leaders who ignited reformations and revolutions and the changes in political, cultural and social landscapes from the late Qing dynasty to the end of the 20th century. Students are expected to participate in the weekly discussion online and prepare their research projects throughout the semester with the writings of review papers on the Chinese writers' essays and films. Building upon the chosen case studies and theoretical reviews, students will submit a short research project proposal in the end of the semester
